IE Discovery to Present Electronic Discovery Symposium for Government Agencies

World-class field of speakers to address most important electronic discovery issues facing government sector

Austin, Texas (September 3, 2008)— IE Discovery, a leading provider of comprehensive Discovery Management solutions to the legal community, will be presenting its 2008 Electronic Discovery Symposium for Government Agencies on September 16, 2008 at the National Press Club in Washington, D.C. The program is designed to provide the information and tools necessary to help government agencies gain control over the discovery process and is highlighted by remarks from The Honorable John M. Facciola, Magistrate Judge for the U.S. District Court, District of Columbia, Jason R. Baron, Director of Litigation, National Archives and Records Administration and Daniel G. Mintz, Chief Information Officer, U.S. Department of Transportation.

The program agenda encompasses a wide range of topics and viewpoints from a cross-section of agencies, agency personnel and the industry, including sessions covering the state of electronic discovery in corporate America, perspectives from the bench, latest cutting-edge technologies, records management and privilege review.

In addition to Judge Facciola, Mr. Baron and Mr. Mintz, the symposium faculty includes:

- Michael J. Bloom, Associate Director, Bureau of Competition, Federal Trade Commission
- Kenneth A. Dalton, Attorney-Advisor, Office of the Solicitor, Indian Trust Litigation Office, Department of the Interior
- Bill Detamore, Chief Legal Officer, IE Discovery, Inc.
- Holly R. Frost, Deputy Assistant Director, Technology & Information Management, Bureau of Competition, Federal Trade Commission
- Stacy O'Neil Jackson, Corporate Counsel, IE Discovery, Inc.
